Reporting Obligation Database

Background

The first phase of the ROD project is now complete and the contractor has delivered the database and a final report to the EEA. The text below is an extract from the final report.

Introduction

"The European Environment Agency (EEA) was established to provide the Community and the Member States with objective, reliable and comparable information at the European level to enable them to take the requisite measures to protect the environment and to assess the results of such measures (Council Regulation EEC/1210/90 Article 1). In doing so, the Agency shall co-operate actively with Eurostat and with other bodies such as the OECD and the United Nations and its specialised agencies. This co-operation must in particular take account of the need to avoid any duplication of effort.

A major European conference - "Bridging the Gap: New Needs and Perspectives for Environmental Information" - held in London in June 1998, concluded that there was a need to update and rationalise the systems for monitoring and reporting information about the environment throughout Europe and that a concerted pan-European movement to streamline monitoring requirements and practices would be very worthwhile.

The conference invited the European Environment Agency acting in co-operation with all European states, and with the Commission of the European Union including Eurostat, to co-ordinate an initial review of the possibilities for rationalising and streamlining existing systems for monitoring and reporting environmental information.

The objective of the ROD project is to produce an inventory of the requirements on member states to report environmental data to meet the international legal and moral obligations relevant to the European level. The information gathered in the inventory will allow the EEA, the European Commission and the Member States to analyse whether there are gaps and duplications in reporting at the international level and provide the basis for harmonising and refining these obligations."

EEA requirements (for the initial contract)

The inventory should cover monitoring and reporting obligations for air quality, air emissions, fresh waters (surface and ground), marine waters and waste. Those 5 topic areas account for some ¾ of the total reporting requirements on member states in the environment field.

For each topic area, the monitoring and reporting needs of each of the following institutions should be covered:

- European Commission Policy Directorates e.g. Directives, Regulations
- European Environment Agency
- Eurostat (e.g. joint OECD/Eurostat questionnaire, env. expenditure survey).
- OECD (e.g. joint questionnaire, agri-environmental indicators)
- The United Nations Agencies e.g. UNEP, UN/ECE.
- International conventions relevant at the European level (e.g. marine conventions, UN Framework Climate Change Convention, UN/ECE CLRTAP).
- The Council of Europe

The inventory should have a limited hierarchical structure with entries for legal and moral obligations grouped by environmental topic area (e.g. air emissions, waste, etc) since historically most legislation and data collection exercises have been focused on addressing issues specific to a particular environmental topic. An additional grouping will be needed to accommodate more recent legislative initiatives, which deal with more than one environmental topic, for example, the IPPC Directive.

Description of the database

In the ROD database, all records are identified by a code, neutral numerical notation, that will allow their identification independently of the user's language.

Currently, the language used in the database is mostly English:

- the reporting obligation information
- the software
- half of the questions information

The other half of the questions information is formulated in French.

For each record in the inventory, at least the following fields will need to be included:

- 1. Name of Institution (e.g. DGXI, EEA, OECD)
- Description of legislation or data collection exercise (e.g. EC/1210/90 Regulation establishing the EEA, Eurostat/OECD Joint Questionnaire)
- 3. Date of entry into force (e.g. 1980 for the Joint Questionnaire, 7/5/90 for EEA Reg)
- 4. Environmental topic it refers to (e.g. air emissions, groundwaters)
- 5. Geographical coverage (e.g. EU15, UNECE, OECD, EU+EFTA)
- 6. Parameters/substances covered (e.g. CO2, NOx, N, P, Heavy Metals)
- 7. Sampling frequency of monitoring
- 8. Both monitoring and Reporting? (Yes/No)
- 9. Derived statistics for reporting by substance (Totals, Averages, SD, %tiles)
- 10. Nomenclature if applicable (e.g. CORINAIR)
- 11. Geographical level (National, Sub-National, European Region)
- 12. Temporal coverage of derived statistics (1970-1996)
- 13. Temporal monitoring? frequency (Annual, Quarterly, Monthly, Weekly)
- 14. Reporting frequency (Annual, Quarterly, Monthly, Weekly)
- 15. Reporting Date (1 April)
- 16. Useful data for Indicators? (Y/N)
- 17. Dissemination channel (e.g. None, Database, Report)
- 18. GEMET terms

ROD is a database of reporting obligations as well as a management tool to meet the objectives of the overall ROD project whose goal is to analyse whether there are gaps and duplications in reporting at the international level and provide the basis for harmonising and refining these obligations.

The content of the ROD database can be described with the help of the following figures:

- 50 reporting obligations (listed below)
- 25.000 questions
- 200.000 keywords

We call Reporting Obligation (RO) a legal text defining the requirements on member states to report environmental data to meet the international legal and moral obligations relevant to the European level. The term 'questions' is used to indicate the specific data which member states are required to provide.

The ROD is an Access '97 database and the data in the database can be accessed in two different ways.

- 1. to list obligations by environmental topic
- 2. to search the database by keywords

The table below lists the Reporting Obligations currently included in the ROD.
