

Bergþóra Njála Guðmundsdóttir

Bergþóra Njála Guðmundsdóttir is Head of Division at the Icelandic Ministry for the Environment and Natural Resources, Department of Policy Coordination and International Affairs. She is responsible for the Ministry's international information on environmental matters, and is the head of the Climate Action Plan of Icelandic Government Offices. Her duties include overseeing and updating the Ministry's overview of international agreements and duties, and editing a report on the state of Icelandic coastal waters. She is a member of the EEA Management Board and a non-EU observer in the EEA Management Board Bureau.

She has an M.Sc. in Environment and Natural Resource studies, a diploma in Journalism and a cand.mag degree in Music. She has been working at the Icelandic Ministry for the Environment and Natural Resources for the past 10 years, most of the time serving as the Head of Information. In that role she also served periodically at the National Crisis Coordination Centre, mostly during natural hazards and recently as an information specialist during the Covid-19 pandemic. Before her time at the Ministry Bergþóra had a career as a journalist for newspaper and television.
