

Felice Cappelluti

Felice Cappelluti is senior officer in the Directorate general for Sustainable Growth and Quality of Development of the Italian Ministry for the Environment, Land and Sea.

After some years spent in working on design and planning, since 1998 he has been working in the Ministry for the Environment, for many years on biodiversity, nature conservation and protected areas issues, especially at international and EU level, and, more recently, on strategic environmental assessment.

International environmental cooperation is his current main field of activity, as deputy-head of the Unit for International Cooperation of his Directorate. Since August 2020 he is also the Mobility manager of the Ministry.

Before current appointment in the EEA MB, he had been already alternate MB member from February 2017 to April 2018.

Among his past assignments, he acted as Italian focal point for Life Nature projects (2005-2015), NFP for Convention on Biological Diversity (2010-2015) as well as for other biodiversity related MEAs (2006-2014), member of the Working Party on International Environmental Affairs for Biodiversity at the Council of the European Union (2010-2015), that he chaired during the semester of Italian Presidency (second half of 2014). He was also involved for long time in EU financial programming activities.

He has a master degree and qualification in Architecture and several post-degree diplomas in European public management and economic policy and sustainable territorial development.
