

Aldona Margeriene

Aldona Margeriene is an adviser of Environmental Research Department at the Environmental Protection Agency. She is responsible for the coordination of research activity, assessment, transboundary issues of river basin management and legal matters. She participates in the activity of several international working groups in EC, OECD, HELCOM, UNECE, Heads of administration of EU Agencies.

She has a Diploma of Master degree in Geography. She took up duties in the Environmental Protection Agency in 2003 and she worked as Head of Basin management department, later she was a Deputy Director of the Environmental Protection Agency for a long time, for short time she was a Director of the Environmental Protection Agency. Prior to being employed at the Environmental Protection Agency she was a head of unit in Water Resources department under the Ministry of Environment of Lithuania. Her commencement of working activities was as specialist for assessment of water quality in Hydrometeorological Service of Lithuania.