

Krisztina Prém

Krisztina Prém is Head of Department of Environmental Development and Policy, at the Hungarian Ministry of Energy. The Department is responsible for preparing the national environmental strategy and monitoring its implementation, integrating environmental aspects into the strategies and development programmes of other sectors, operating environmental education programs, and performing tasks arising from EU and international environmental policy cooperation. The Department participates in national, EU and international tasks related to the promotion of sustainable development.

She has a degree in agro-environmental engineering at Szent István University, which she later supplemented with a certificate in law. She started working at the Ministry of Environment and Water Management in 2003 and has always been involved in environmental strategic planning and sustainable development issues. She is a member of the OECD Environmental Policy Committee and several EU and international environmental expert working groups.