

STEFANO LAPORTA

Stefano Laporta is a Prefect of the Republic, with a degree in Law and specialisation in his profession as a lawyer, he also holds a degree in Political Science. He is also Lecturer at the Faculty of Political Science at the University of Rome "La Sapienza" in the course "Environmental justice and the fight against climate change."

Since October 2021 Stefano Laporta is serving for his second term as President of the Italian Institute for Environmental Protection and Research (ISPRA), after having covered in the same Institution the positions of Deputy Commissioner since July 2008, Director General since 2010 and President since September 2017. His nomination as ISPRA President by the Italian Government, at the proposal of the Minister for Environment, was approved with a vote by the Parliament.

In this function he chairs the National System for Environmental Protection (SNPA) bringing together the 21 Italian regional environmental protection agencies and ISPRA.

From November 2019 to May 2021 Stefano Laporta also chaired the Council of the Presidents of the Italian national research institutes.

Since 2017 he is President of the Advisory Board of the National Inspectorate for Nuclear Safety and Radiation Protection (ISIN), after having covered the function of Head of the Authority for Nuclear Safety (now ISIN) since June 2011.

Member and Italian representative within the following international organizations:

- Network of the Heads of European Environment Protection Agencies (EPA Network)
- Western European Nuclear Regulators Association (WENRA)
- European Nuclear Safety Regulators Group (ENSREG)

In 2017 Stefano Laporta was appointed Chairman of ENSREG Working Group on Waste and Decommissioning.

From July 2002 to January 2006 Stefano was Deputy Head and then Head of the Cabinet of the Minister for Equal Gender Opportunities.

From 2001 to 2005 he served in the President of the Council of Ministers Office as General Manager and he was appointed, until 2008, Deputy Extraordinary Commissioner of the Government – Implementing body for waste emergency for the Latium Region.